

The Grand Hotel is the oldest and most illustrious of the Croisette's hotels. Its original edifice was constructed in 1863 at the same time as the Croisette, and for many years it was the premier and only luxury resort in Cannes. Demolished and rebuilt in 1963, the hotel currently offers 76 bedrooms, including a floor of suites and deluxe rooms with sea views and 45 m² terraces, plus junior suites.

Completely refurbished in 2006 with a sixties-style interior design, the hotel continued to revitalise itself in 2008 with an update of its private beach, renamed "Plage 45", now furnished with exotic, comfortable "Gazebos" that mirror the Hotel's colour palette.

The Grand Hotel is the Croisette's only 11-storey hotel and proposes penthouse suites with panoramic terraces and spas offering breathtaking views over the Bay of Cannes.

The exceptional location of the Hotel at the centre of the Croisette is adorned by a unique garden planted with palm trees that provides a haven of peace and foliage. The greenery is punctuated by relaxation areas and a large terrace that extends the Park 45 restaurant and Le Cercle bar.

To crown its reputation and satisfy its clientele, the Grand Hotel has just appointed a new Michelin-starred chef, Sébastien Broda, to take over the reins at Park 45 and also oversee the kitchens at Plage 45.

Park 45 proposes 2 lunch and evening menus:

- Le 45 Croisette at € 45
- Le Plaisir du Park at € 65
- The "Terre et Mer" menu is in the range of € 85

A special set menu, "La semaine de Sébastien", is available on the terrace for € 34.

The arrival of its new Chef Sébastien Broda confirms the Grand Hotel, with its gastronomic table, as one of the jewels of luxury hotels in Cannes.
